

Our red-headed heroine settles into her seat and plays some Marvel Puzzle Quest.

Please don't sit here. Please don't sit here.
Great. He's sitting here.

She's so annoyed. All she wants to do is play Marvel Puzzle Quest. Notice that she's playing Black Widow.

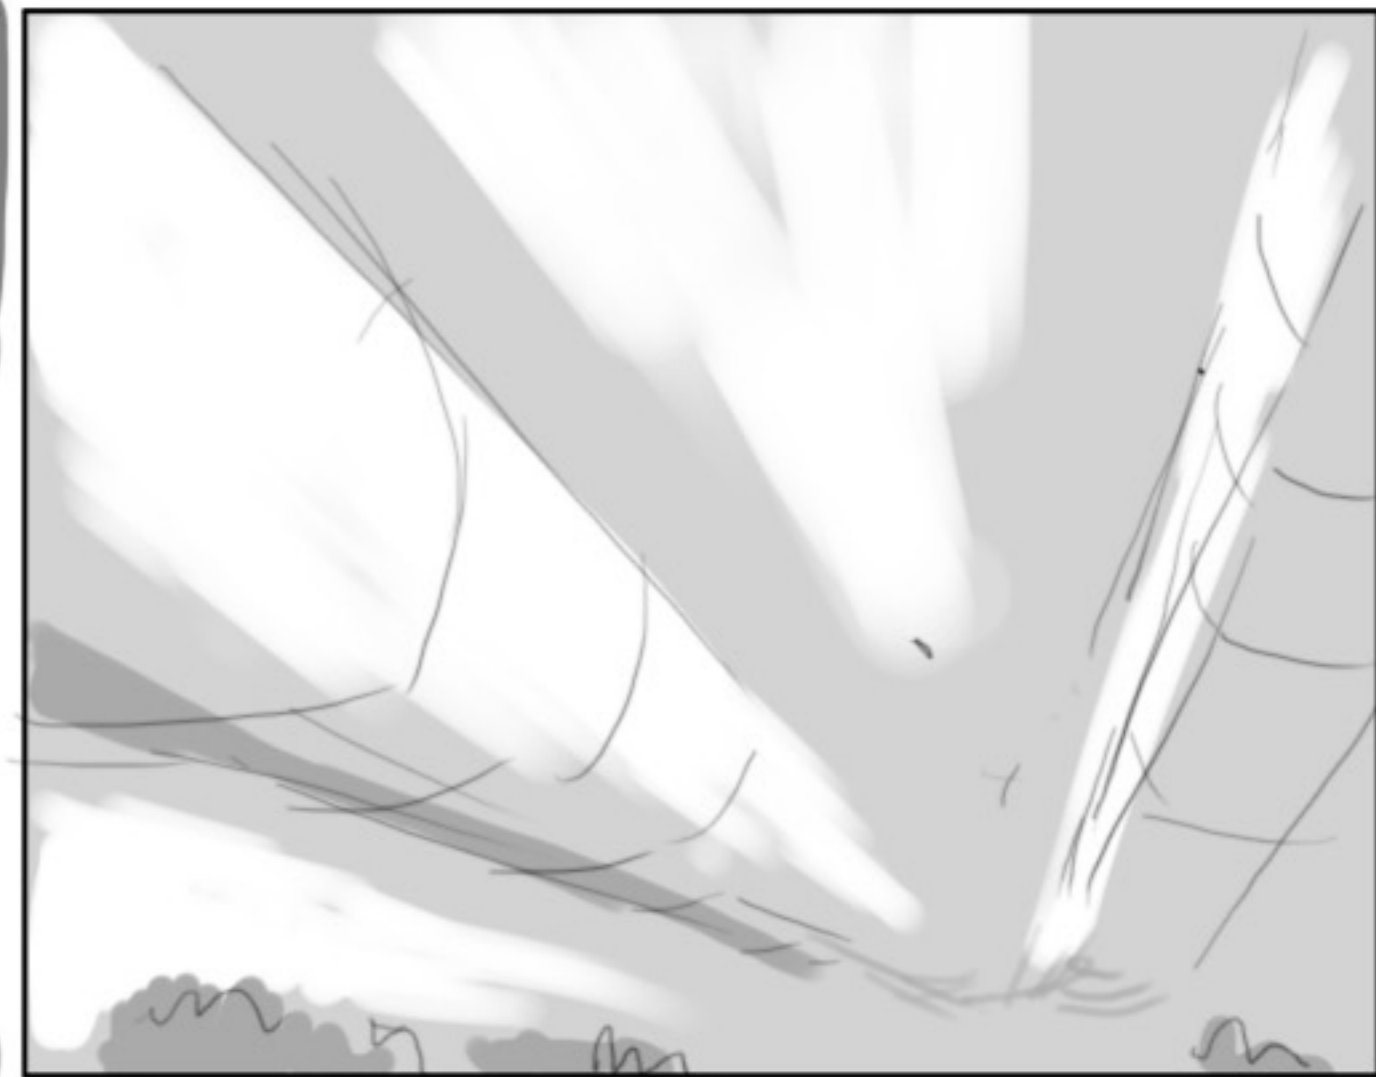

The last straw: he knocks her drink over, making a big mess.

She is PISSED. The jerk is visibly unconcerned.

Her expression says, "Okay. That's it."

Off-camera: loud metallic ripping. Banging. Muffled "oof" noises from the jerk. A few potato chips spew up into the air. Suddenly, all is peaceful...

The jerk is frozen in fear. Big bag of chips stuffed in his face like a gag. He's tied up in his own headphone wire. His armrest is crumpled up and tied around his wrists.

High five – with the guy in the other seat, who has been there the whole time, and is probably just as annoyed. That other passenger happens to be...

Lou Ferrigno.

Lou gives her a look that says, "nice one, partner."

He goes back to minding his own business, playing...

Marvel Puzzle Quest. (He just happens to be playing Hulk.) VO for the end of the spot and into the end slate: "Marvel Puzzle Quest – find your inner superhero."